

(the way the Dealer is required to set their hand). After all Player hands are set, the Dealer then exposes their cards and sets two hands per the House Way. Each hand is then compared to the Dealer hand to determine if it wins or loses, as well as if it qualifies for a Bonus, if that wager has been made.

- If both the 5 card and 2 card hand rank higher than the Dealer's the Player wins even money, less a 5% commission that is collected when the winning wager is paid.
- If either of the Player hands ranks higher than the Dealer's corresponding hand, but not both, the entire hand is a tie and the Player's wager is not collected or paid.
- If one hand ranks exactly the same as the Dealer hand, it is a copy hand and is won by the Dealer or the Banker.

FORTUNE PAI GOW POKER

Pai Gow Poker is a seven card poker game consisting of a five card hand and a two card hand. A Joker is used in this game and is wild, meaning it can either complete a straight, a flush, a straight flush or a royal flush or may act as an Ace. Each player will receive seven cards and from them will set a five card hand and a two card hand according to poker rankings. The five card hand must be equal to or higher than the two card hand. Each player will make a Pai Gow Poker wager in increments of $5 before the cards are dealt. Then each position on the game is dealt seven cards, including positions without a wager.

HOW TO PLAY

To begin each round, Players make a standard Pai Gow wager and the optional Fortune Bonus wager. A Player can act as the banker as long as they can cover all wagers on the layout at the time of the round and have placed a wager against the Dealer the last time the Dealer was the bank. After all cards are dealt, Players make their best 5 card and 2 card hands. If a Player needs assistance setting their hand, the Dealer will set the hand per the House Way
